Spring Clean On Campus & Community

Majority of BYU students and faculty members combined their efforts today in what may prove to be the most successful and wide-spread undertaking ever attempted for annual Y Day activity.

In addition to traditional renovating of the huge block letter Y on the side of the mountain overlooking BYU campus, clean-up crews swarmed over the campus community and buildings of BYU in a whirl-wind spring-cleaning.

Cake baking contest, which will feature the culinary efforts of campus chefs, is open to all students on campus this year. Cakes which will employ a Y-Day motif, are being judged this morning at 10:15 at the Joseph Smith building.

This afternoon's events include a wide assortment of fun and festivities for students and faculty members alike. Beginning with the widely-heralded barbecue dinner, the recreational activities will be climaxed by an outdoor dance tonight.

Luncheon is to be served at the top of the stadium, allowing students to go down into the stands to eat. During this period a program will be presented including the following numbers.

Gus Shields and his orchestra will provide musical entertainment, with an accordion duet, baton twirlers, Jimmy Cooper's

BYU Forensic Contingent Returns From Denver Meet

A six-man Brigham Young University contingent, headed by debate coach Dr. J. LaVar Bateman, returned home from Denver where they attended the annual Tau Kappa Alpha Speech convention.

The convention had in addition to the usual administrative meetings, competition in debate. The BYU squad split ten contests to garner about an average rating.

Representing BYU were Dr. Bateman and five students, Olene Smith, Weston Edwards, Earl McBride, Lloyd Gerber and Gerry Asplund. Nineteen other schools, including Utah State and the University of Utah, from a total of twelve states, were also represented.

The team reported that the event was one of teh most successful of the year. Despite only mediocre success in actual competition, the time was well spent, according to the debators.

Subjects included "Communism" and "Federal Employment Practices Commission." A plan telling "How to Ward Off Communism in America" was adopted by the delgates and will be submitted to the United States Congress for discussion.

This was the first convention of the national forensic fraternity to which the Y has been able to send a team. Huge distances have in the past proven to be barriers not only to BYU but to other western schools as well.

College Qualification Tests Due May 11 Warns General Hershey

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, today reminded college students that applications for the May 21 Selective Service College Qualification Test must be submitted to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, not later than midnight, May 11.

The May 21 test is primarily for students prevented by illness or other emergencies from taking the test April 23, but General Hershey emphasized that this did not bar any qualified student from taking the test if his application is mailed before the deadline. He also stressed that students who have a certificate of admission before the April 23 test which they failed to use on the assigned date must submit new applications if they wish to take the May 21 test. The old certificates, he pointed out, will not admit a student to the May 21 test.

General Hershey said the May 21 test will be the last test this school year.

The student may obtain a new application from any Selective Service local board.

The application blanks should be submitted as soon as possible to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, administrators to test, who, in turn, will mail the admission certificate direct to the student.

To be eligible to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test an applicant on the testing date (1) must be a Selective Service registrant who intens to request deferment as a student; (2) must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course, undergraduate or graduate, leading to a degree; (3) must not previously have taken the test.

The criteria for consideration for deferment as a student at the present time are either a score of 70 or better on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or class standing among the male members in the upper half of the freshman class, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class, or upper three-fourths of the junior class.

BRIGHAM YOUNG
UNIVERSE

THANKS — LEROY & CO.

Its been a good year! And there's another one ahead!

We're speaking of the accomplishments of this year's student officers and the potential exhibited by next year's electives.

Contrary to many opinions, student officers DO have many important functions on the Brigham Young campus. Playing the role of diplomat at other schools and at meetings and conventions is somewhat minor when compared to formulation and follow-through of student policy.

The student executive council at BYU has direct charge of all student legislative, social, assembly and special committee responsibilities with the direct commission to carry them out. No small task when one considers the lobbying and opposition which develops.

There's no doubt that BYU is a better university because of the student leadership it has had this year. The UNIVERSE as the representative of the associated students hereby prints a grateful thank you for a job well done to LeRoy, Olene, Bob, Carolyn, and Fred.

Also a sincere wish for another successful, 'bigger and better year,' to the incoming council—Quinn, Gerry, Ken, Joana and Wes.

LEGISLATIVE LEANINGS

by Dick Oveson - UNIVERSE Tuesday Editor

This year's executive council still has a lot of work to do, despite its lame-duck status. The council must wrap up this year's activities and get student government in shape to hand over to the new administration. Incidentally, students should drop in and take a look at the job secretary Carolyn Edwards is doing on the year's history. She has done a bang up job.

President LeRoy Porter is still looking for the leak that let radio listeners know the identities of the new student officers before the information was officially released during the Inaugural ball. The information was released over the radio half an hour before the dance started.

Interesting note: Weston Edwards, at five eleven, is the tallest member of this year's executive council. Quite a contrast with this year's council where six foot president Porter is the shortest male member.

A vote to Gerry Asplund as the most excited new officer. Most other officers maintained a dignified calm, but Gerry was hugging everybody in sight.

Cheers to Hal Christensen for his outstanding display of sportsmanship in going clear across the stage to congratulate winner Quinn McKay. Most losers could take the disappointing news from the audience, but Chris, as senior class president, was on the stand with the outgoing officers, and he took care of a difficult situation like the champion he is.

The Safety Valve

Line Drawn . . .

Dear Editor:

"Freedom Endangered by Disuse" was an excellent article—IF religion had been left out of it. What is true of the secular is NOT true of the spiritual. We can sit down and figure out a mathematical problem with the slide rule; but not so with spiritual problems.

The only way we can know God's truth is by a personal manifestation of the Holy Ghost. Alma says that is how he knew. (Alma 5:45,46). Nor by creative thinking and imagination can we improve God's truth. His truth, revealed through his prophets to his people when they are ready for it, everlasting and unchangeable, or God would cease to be God. "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not unto thine own understanding." "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Nephi predicted people would teach with their learning "and deny the Holy Ghost which giveth utterance." In I Corinthians Paul says that, to the Greeks, teaching Christ would be foolishness for "the Greeks seeketh after wisdom." Yes, we know the "glory of God is intelligence." What kind of intelligence? What did the apostles tell us at General Conference? Surely we are supposed to learn. We believe in eternal progression—and we will find God's truth—the only everlasting truth—only through the Holy Ghost. "By the power of the Holy Ghost ye may know the truth of all things."

As to the "intellectuals" in religion: "A wicked and perverse generation seeketh after a sign," and "signs shall follow the believers."

Actually , do the living oracles have to find sanction in the minds of men to be enduringly effective? The Son of God did not find such sanction, but look how enduringly effective He was. Joseph Smith was murdered—a strange way of being sanctioned by men—and look what he did. Jeremiah, Noah, Paul—the list of holy prophets is very long—and did they find sanction in the minds of men? "Blessed are ye when all men shall curse and revile you for my name's sake."

Let's exercise our freedom to declare the truth! Let's use this God-given liberty! for "Who shall declare his generation?"

Repentant Spirit . . .

Dear Editor:

I am one who has stooped so low as to use an "acid-eaten" penny in one of the candy machines on campus. Ever since then I have been uneasy whenever I pass one of the machines—especially after reading the reprimand which was directed to my kind in one of the past editions of the UNIVERSE.

You will find enclosed an evidence of my repentance, namely: one, thin dime. Please see that it arrives in the hands of its rightful owner.

Educational TV: A Future?

by Art Hardy

Texas has been called a land of superlatives. Why? Because Texas always has the biggest and the best — first.

If you are thinking of something new and exciting in television, then that is right. For in April, the University of Houston began broadcasting from the first non-commercial TV station, operating on an educational license.

A year ago, the Federal Communications Commission reserved 242 TV channels for education. Communities, colleges, civic organizations, religious groups were given until June 2 of this year to qualify for a non-commercial license. So far, only 13 have been granted, and only one is in operation—Station KUHT-TV in Houston. Eleven other applications are pending before the FCC, but it appears that only 10 per cent of the 242 channels will be taken. If this happens, few people will ever have the opportunity of watching television without some guy trying to sell them the newest model bean-shooter.

The potentialities of educational television are unknown. No one knows how many people would rather have lectures, demonstrations, and films of cultural and educational value, than the present endless array of variety shows, comics, wrestlers, and bang bangs. Judging from the increasing popularity of classical music, a good guess is that people can and will learn to enjoy programs that are not strictly for entertainment. In the thirties, when the radio broadcasting of classical music was begun, few believed any would listen. Now that classical record sales approach popular record sales, it is clear that many thousands of people have been educated to appreciate and enjoy classical music. Why can't TV do the same with art, languages, geography, hobbies? The subject matter is unlimited.

One good reason why educational TV is having a hard time in establishing itself is money. It costs about $250,000 to build a station, and about $150,000 to operate it for a year. Another difficulty is finding the right programs. The Ford Foundation believes in the possibilities of educational TV. It has set aside $5,000,000 for its promotion. For every two dollars that a group raises, the foundation will add another. The foundation has also set aside one-and-a-half million dollars for an exchange center, where stations may exchange films.

Yet, with all this help, only 10 per cent of the potential educational channels have been applied for. It takes time to raise money and apparently a year has not been enough time for enough people to given enough money. In Utah, the state legislature appropriated money to qualify for the channel in Utah, but Governor Lee vetoed the bill. So, unless the FCC extends the June 2 deadline, most of the opportunity for educational TV will be gone in Utah and the other 46 states. But not Texas.

Zannerisms . . .

More About Movies

by Zan Knudsen

For those of us who like the "High Noon" type western with its subtle acting and simple plot, "Pony Express" will be disappointing. This epic, which was recently in town, is overblown in every respect—too long, too talky, too dull. But it had one saving point which made it worth while to anyone who goes for beautiful scenery. In fact the stars, as far as we're concerned, were the Vermillion Cliffs of southern Utah and the mountains and plains around Kanab. All the action, including a dozen fights with injuns, gun duels with honnery sidewinders and luke warm love scenes were shot with these multi-color cliffs as the backdrop. They were worth the price of admission.

A fairly interesting bit of catholic propaganda which we saw over the weekend is "Anna." This one has to its advantage some excellent background music, a human and witty doctor, and the acting of Silvia Magnano. The music is becoming quite a hit and can be heard at all hours on Rowley's juke box—or try swimming to its tricky rhythm at Saratoga. The original record which was taken right off the sound track is the best one.

Miss Magnano, a luscious, Italian, Bergman type actress played her part of reformed night club singer with restraint that is unusual in Italian movies. Her job of shafting the man and taking the catholic vows was actually believable. One objection we have is that her voice was dubbed in (as the movie was made in Italian) and it did not fit her looks. Otherwise it was entertaining for an obvious propaganda movie. We doubt if it made many converts in Utah.

We had to go all the way to Payson last week for an unwestern, unmusical movie, but even those would have been preferable to what we saw there. That little quickie, "Blue Gardenia" left something to be desired in every department. It was the same old detective yarn with the blond murderess, knuckle-headed chief of police, bright young newspaper man and big smooch fade out. It had neither the Kanab scenery nor Silvia Magnano to save it from being the corniest since the last Y film classic.

Student Mystery . . .

Summer School Information Presented by Session Dean

To most students summer at Brigham Young University is a mystery.

Dr. Ariel S. Ballif, dean of the Summer School, stated today that he felt that many of the students were not conscious of the opportunities that the school offered during the summer months.

"We will have many guest lecturers and instructors on the campus of our school this summer quarter who are renowned for their achievements in their various fields of specialization, but we feel that the backbone of the summer instruction lies in the capabilities of our own faculty members," remarked Dr. Ballif.

By attending the summer quarter for three years the students may be able to finish their college career in three years instead of the regular four. The students get full quarter's credit for summer school and in addition are able to obtain an enriched program that is not available to the students during the other quarters.

There are many opportunities awaiting the students who find it possible to attend summer school. Check into the possibilities that are waiting for you if are capable of participating in this program, it may be what you are looking for.

Archaelogical Evidences Presented To Book of Mormon By State Senator

Evidences that there were migrations by an ancient people in America were presented by former Arizona State Senator William Coxan to the University Archaeological Society in their meeting Thursday.

For the past 17 years, Senator Coxan has devoted himself to the study of petroglyphs, ancient rock "writings." It is believed that he possesses the world's largest collection of photos of petroglyphs. The collection includes many Kodachrome slides. Senator Coxan is considered one of the world's foremost authorities on petroglyphs.

Senator Coxan has made a close study of petroglyphs from the southwestern United States. From this study, he has developed a theory that cognate petroglyphs show the routes of migration of an ancient, enlightened and benevolent people. Senator Coxan explained that he was not a Latter-day Saint but that he regards the Book of Mormon as "an outstanding authority in American archaeology." He also stated that if he had read the book earlier it would have saved him much time and effort in his studies.

Senator Coxan is now in the midst of studying the petroglyphs of Utah Valley and Western Utah.

Teacher Placement Bureau Tries To Place Grads in School Jobs

by Rense Andrus — UNIVERSE Staff Writer

Are there any openings in the Alpine District? Could you place me in Arizona?

The Teacher Placement Bureau, with Edgar M. Jensen at the head are answering these questions in the attempt to place teachers in the needed positions. Two-thirds of the names on file in the Teacher Placement have at present been placed, while the remaining one-third names are files of those who are not seeking jobs for the coming year.

More than the usual shortage is seen this year in elementary teachers, especially in the rural elementary grades. A majority of this year's elementary education majors are signed in Provo, Alpine, Nebo, and Tooele school districts.

Heaviest demand in the secondary field is in girls physical education and home economics. To date there have been twenty-seven more openings than could be filled in home economics and twenty-two more openings than could be filled in girls physical education. In other fields the supply and demand are about equal, except in boys physical education and social science where there will possibly be an oversupply.

This tremendous demand all through the state of Utah is a result of unsettled conditions in education, also causing the superintendents to be unable to quote salary schedules.

Openings from California are especially heavy this year. Salaries are about $1,000 more a year for those beginning. Many teachers who have been out for a year are returning to seek positions in this California area. Due to the present attitude toward education in Utah quite a number of people who have majored in education are rather hesitant about going into the work and are seeking work in other lines.

Geologists Make Plans for Annual Spring Field Trip

The annual Brigham Young University spring geology field trip will be taken Saturday, according to Dr. H. L. Hansen, geology chairman.

The trip, starting at 8 a.m., will include stops at Point of the Mountain, Salt Lake Valley, Great Salt Lake Lake, Little Cottonwood Canyon, Temple Granite, Parley's, Emigration, and City Creek Canyons. Bingham Canyon, and bodies of glaciated rocks and intrusive rocks.

Buses will provide transportation and each person should bring his own lunch.

Extra credit will be given students if they make a written report of their trip, according to Dr. Hansen.

All members of geology classes or any other interested students and wives, husbands, or friends of students are invited to participate.

Colo. A & M Takes First BYU Rodeo

Colorado A&M walked off with rodeo team honors last week end at BYU's first annual rodeo and Bob Kaufmann of Wyoming University emerged as All-Around Cowboy.

An icy wind swept over the Provo rodeo grounds both Friday and Saturday nights, keeping attendance down but failing to affect the smoothness with which the rodeo came off.

The Colorado Aggies, with 409 points, beat out Wyoming University, with 364 points, for first place. The Colorado team is rated the second best college rodeo team in the nation. BYU placed third with 237 points and was followed by Utah University and Utah State. Thirty-nine contestants from the five colleges participated.

BYU Rider Runner-Up

A BYU rider from San Angelo, Tex., Grant Speed, was runner-up for All-Around Cowboy. Speed had 152 points while the winner, Kaufmann of Wyoming, had 194. Speed took first in saddle bronc riding and fourth in Brahma bull riding. Kaufmann took seconds in bareback bronc riding and Brahma bull riding, and thirds in bulldogging and calf roping.

As All-Around Cowboy, Kaufmann won a hand-tooled saddle donated by the Provo Riding Club. First place winner in each event was awarded a gold and silver trophy buckle.

One Minor Injury

Although the stock was judged as some of the liveliest to hit this area in some time, only one minor injury was reported. Zener La Fleiche of Wyoming was stepped on by a bull Friday night and had to have 25 stitches taken in his thigh. The injury was not serious, however.

Six-man teams are entered by each school in these rodeos and only the points made by these men count in the meet standings.

Lavina Borgeson, talented BYU coed, added to her talents Friday night by attempting to ride a Brahma bull. Like most of the other cowhands who tried their hands at bull riding, she lasted until the fourth jump but was acclaimed by the chilled crowd for her attempt.

Wants Annual Affair

This was BYU's first intercollegiate rodeo and the crowd expressed its desire to have the event made an annual affair.

In the girls' events, Nola Davis of Las Vegas, rodeo queen, took first place in the cloverleaf race. Marijane Clay was second and Barbara Bassett third. Barbara Bassett took second in the goat tying and Marijane Clay second.

The BYU rodeo team travels to Washington State this week to compete in a rodeo there.

Rundown of Events

ON THE SIDELINE

by Jack Nelson

We braved the cold last week end to see what was coming off at this first intercollegiate rodeo that BYU ever put on. We were surprised first of all to find that Provo has a pretty decent rodeo grounds and then were doubly surprised to see what a good job Dick Smith and the Rodeo Club had done with the show.

The stock was fightin' mad and the show moved like clockwork. In fact, we found out that college rodeoing is a dang sight more exciting than commercial rodeos. There is the spirit of competition with other colleges and the fact that you know some of the riders. There's nothing like seeing a friend get piled, or for that matter, riding his mount.

BYU Rodeo Should be Annual Affair

This rodeo was something of a trial venture. We hear the administration wasn't red hot over the idea. But with the way the show went, we don't see how they can fail to back up the idea from now on.

It's true that they didn't make any money on the show, but they were dealt a low blow by the weather. And then people didn't know what to expect from a college rodeo. Word has already got around that this was one of the best athletic shows that BYU puts on, and rivals anything for thrills. Crowds will come accordingly.

Grant Speed, a quiet, unassuming Y students from Texas, got about all the thrills he wanted. On the first night Speed's saddle-bronc somersaulted straight over and just missed the lanky rider. His bareback bronc fell with him that night, too. Saturday night his saddle bronc fell just after Speed had made his winning ride on that horse.

Clown Has Toughest Job

The clown, who has to be one of the best performers in the rodeo, by the way, had his hands full keeping the bulls away from the boys. He did a top job but was unable to get to a Wyoming rider before his bull stepped on him and cut his leg. A little later a bull fell just out of the chute and pinned a Colorado rider's leg under him. Two dozen cowhands held the bull down until they could get the rider untangled from his rigging. Then that bull came up with horns swinging and in half a second had that arena all to himself.

Rodeoing is a tough, thrill-filled sport, and is catching on at colleges faster than the flat-top haircut. A little over a year ago, there were 33 colleges in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. This year BYU is one of the 52 members of the NIRA.

After seeing BYU's rodeo, we're sure of two things. If you're one of the timid souls who stayed home with a good book last week, you missed one of the best sports shows of the year. But you may still be able to see the Y team ride at University of Utah or Utah State in a couple of weeks. They're traveling to Washington State for a rodeo this week.

The second thing we're sure of is what all rodeo riders say when they're dying in the arena, "Never was a horse that couldn't be rode, never was a cowboy that couldn't be throwed." We believe it.

Y Golfers & Netters Trip Montana; Still Hold Skyline Conference Lead

The BYU golf and tennis teams are still on top of the skyline ladder following impressive victories over the Montana U Golf and tennis squads at Missoula last Friday afternoon.

BUCK DIXON
material . . .

It was Stickel, Davis and Belt that golfed the Y to a 9-7 victory up on the Montana green, with the big points coming when Stickel and Jerry Belt teamed up to take the best ball foursome play.

The victory kept the Brighams in the driver's seat for the western division golf crown.

Losing only one doubles match, the BYU tennis squad handily turned back Montana by a score of 8-1.

Victories for the Cougars went to Bob Kirkpatrick, Dean Larsen, Ed Pinegar, Stan Collins, LaMar Rawlings and Bob Carmack in the singles. The two doubles wins went to Rawlings and Collins and Larsen and Carmack.

Utah U currently shares first place honors with Brigham Young for the conference tennis lead.

The BYU and Utah golf and tennis teams will clash this afternoon (Tuesday) in Provo and Friday in Salt Lake City.

Lish Victorious as Y Nine Divides Double-header

Ray Lish hurled seven hit ball in the second game of a twin bill to give the Cats an even split with Montana University last Friday in Missoula.

Score of the night-cap was 9-2, with the first game ending with the Grizzlies on the long end of a 7-5 encounter.

Riding on the strength of Lish's strong right arm the Cougars maintained a slim hold on first place in the western division standings.

Both hurlers in the second game, Lish and Carl Hansen for Montana, went the route, with the veteran Cougar ace, Lish, gaining his third conference win against one setback.

In the afternoon contest, Grizzlie ace Gene Carlson pitched and batted the Montanans to victory. Carlson was the whole show in his teams win. Besides giving up seven safeties, Big Gene stole home, hit a 360-ft. home run, and drove in two runs.

The Utah Redskins remained in contention for the division crown with the Cougars and Grizzlies by dropping USAC in two games last Saturday.

Delayed Ute Track Meet Finally Held

The track meet with Utah University, postponed Saturday because of a wet track, was held yesterday afternoon on the BYU track.

Bob Bills, BYU sprinter, was unable to participate in the meet because of a pulled leg muscle. He will probably be out of competition for several weeks, Coach Clarence Robison said.

Blue-White Tilt To Show Grid Squad Tonight

As a climax to Y day, students and townspeople will get their first look at next year's football squad in action tonight.

Postponed from last Thursday because of rain, the annual BYU inter-squad game, will pit Blue (Yankee) team against White (Rebels) squad.

It's not only the first football game of the year and the first view of the 1953 Y eleven, but the game will also unveil the one platoon system which will be used next fall.

Starting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Y stadium, the contest will have three bands on hand for pre-game and halftime activities. The bands include the Air Force ROTC, Provo High and BY High bands. The pre-game and half-time activities are under the direction of F. V. Nichols.

Enjoying the game from the stands will be Coach Chick Atkinson and his staff while the Downtown Coaches take over at the helm.

Seating will be determined by the color of the ticket which the fan will receive free of charge. Those having white tickets will sit in the south section and cheer for the Rebels while those with blue ducats will cheer the Yankee squad from the north section.

Acting as co-captains tonight are George Bowman, tackle, and halfback Dick Felt for the Blue squad; another tackle, Marion Probert, and Reed Stolworthy, fullback, will head the Rebels.

Tonight will also be the first showing of the Freshmen who will be wearing the blue and white next fall.

Tennis, Golf & Archery IM Tourney Schedules

Spring intramural activities get under way this month with tournaments in golf, tennis, and co-ed archery.

According to Dave Geddes, intramural director, entries will close for golf May 6, tennis May 11, and co-ed archery May 15. Entrants should sign up at the intramural office in the field-

UCLA Volley Squad Wins Over Y Team

A capacity crowd saw a highly touted UCLA volleyball team defeat a makeshift Brigham Young University team Friday night.

The BYU team made a surprisingly good showing against the coast squad, who are on their way to the national volleyball finals in Omaha. They are expected to take the nationals.

UCLA had it all over the Cougars in heighth and experience. One of their men had been all American in volleyball for the last three years.

In the first game, the Bruins narrowly beat the BYU team, 15 to 13. They won the second game 15 to 11. The Bruins won the third game, with the Hawaiian Club team, 15 to 7. Two more games were also won by the UCLA team.

Despite the losses, the coast squad said that the BYU team had the ingredients of a top team. According to intramural director Dave Geddes, BYU's little Kenny Wedemeyer was the second best man on the court.

Brigs Lead IM Softball Race

Going into the back stretch in the race for the BYU Intramural Softball championship, the Brigadiers lead the American League with a five won, no loss record, and Wymount and Hung Moose lead the National League with three wins and no losses each.

Brigadiers appear to be the powerhouse of their league with Sterling McKell pitching and their infield functioning smoothly. The Saxons, Brickers and Vikings are tied for second with a four won, one lost record.

Wymount and the Weber club appear to be the teams to beat in the National League. Wymount, behind the pitching of undefeated Widstoe Shumway, has been on top since play began. Weber club has lost one game but is expected to finish near the top when the tourney ends.

Play is scheduled to end in both leagues on the 15th of May.

A three game playoff series between the leaders in the two leagues will be held to determine the school championship.

WHAT A JOB!—Chet Harris makes this comment as he attempts to collect props for use in speech department play, "George Washington Slept Here." Play utilizes more unusual props than any play of year. Plows, clocks and antiterms had to be borrowed from farmers for presentation.

A Rusty Plow . . .

Backstage Props, Problems Challenge Production Crew

"I thoTght acting was tough until I took this job," is the way Chet Harris, Independence, Mo., describes the job of stage properties for "George Washington Slept Here," forthcoming speech department production.

Among the more "unusual" props for which Chet is conducting a search are such things as a rusty plow, an old-fashioned hand-powered lawnmower, picks and shovels, a horse collar, a wagon wheel, mattresses, wheelbarrows, manure, gravel, bedsteads, chicken feed, and innumerable others.

The properties committee is "looting nearby farms in an effort to unearth some of these things," Chet stated, adding that he would appreciate hearing from any students who know where such things can be located.

Others working on the production crew of the play include Carma Collett, Baltimore, Md., costumes; Bob Struthers, Logan, sets; Dean Hallstone, Grand Junction, Colo., stage manager; and Dorothy Bartels, Columbus, Neb., and Fred Dixon, Provo, publicity.

The play is Moss Hart's and George S. Kaufman's hilarious comedy of what happens when a city family takes over a dilapidated farmhouse, one of the many in which George Washington supposedly slept, and tries to make it into a modern country home.

Dr. Harold I. Hansen, speech department chairman, is director of the play, set for 8:15 pm., May 13-16 in the Smith auditorium.

Tickets are now available at both the information booth and Heindselman's Music Company. Students may obtain tickets with their activity cards. Public admission price is 75c.

J. BRACKEN LEE TALKS MONDAY

Governor J. Bracken Lee will speak in the Smith Banquet Hall Monday evening under the sponsorship of BYU's chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha, honorary political science fraternity.

His address will be on the subject "Practical Aspects of Government," with an open question period afterwards.

Bert Todd, president of Phi Sigma Alpha emphasized that all students are invited. Many invitations are being sent to prominent Utahns but the fraternity is anxious to have a large percentage of students in the audience.

Committee members working on arrangements include Russell Horiuchi, Morris Hickman, Cliff Olmstead, Dick Nielson, and Lu Markham.

'Divining Rod' Developed By Y Alumnus

A new "divining rod," an electro-magnetic device that not only locates water, but indicates its quality as well, has been developed by Don A. Hansen, a BYU alumnus.

Mr. Hansen is the son of Dr. George H. Hansen, chairman of the BYU geology department and acting dean of the college of geophysics at University of California at Los Angeles where he is working towards his Ph.D. degree.

The technique is designed to locate underground water sources in the water table region and has proved accurate in preliminary tests. It uses two wire coils to locate water bearing strata. One coil induces an electric current into the ground. The other measures differences in the induced current as it flows through the ground.

Water-bearing strata, such as tightly packed silt and clay or loose sand and gravel, are identified by their degree of conductivity of the electric current. The conductivity pattern also reveals geological formations such as buried river channels.

Martin Announces New Assistantships

Thomas L. Martin, dean of the College of Applied Science, today announced that assistantships to the extent of $1400 to $1900 per year are available to BYU students interested in soil science.

Applicants should have had 4-5 hours of chemistry, 15 hours of physics, and 30 hours of mathematics plus their soil classes.

Varsity Variety Series Ends With Final Show Wednesday

Fourteen hundred dollars has been added to the Brigham Young University scholarship fund by B. L. Fagin, manager of the Paramount theater for Varsity Varieties, programs by BYU students. They have been presented on Wednesday night in connection with his movies during the past few months.

Since the variety shows have been so successful, an extra one has been added this week. This makes a total of 15 performances.

Outstanding acts of past varieties will be presented in this week's concluding show.

The Hawaiian, Kia Ora Club, Virgil Camp with Lorna Erickson, and the Hill Billies will reappear.

Also an the program will be Gus Shields' band, a boy trio, and Lavina Borgeson, singer.

Jack the Bachelor, John MacCabe, and Janie Thompson are also anticipated to be on this final varsity show.

Chairman for the series of Varsity Varieties has been Janie Thompson, adviser of the Student Program Bureau at BYU, and John MacCabe, student chairman.
